- York University will have a new college in 1969-70. Temporarily called Pioneer College, the newest addition to the York Campus will be housed for one year in the Central Square with common rooms, dining facilities and offices. One floor of the first graduate residence will be available so that a number of senior students who want to transfer to the new college will be able to live in residence.

Pioneer College needs the assistance of students and faculty to work with the Master and Senior Tutor in deciding what kind of college they want to develop, in making decisions about furnishing and functioning of the permanent quarters, to be built hopefully by 1970.

Here is a great opportunity for students and faculty who want to be involved in a new venture. Those interested should send their names and addresses to D.M. Healy, Vice-President for Academic Affairs, York University. A meeting will be held shortly to discuss Pioneer College in more detail.
