GENERAL

- Experimental satellite dial access installations for the Linguistics and Language Training Programme have been opened in Founders (016), Vanier (029A) and Winters (111). Not only saving students time in walking to labs, they are also available for use between 9.00 a.m. and 12.00 midnight - even when those in Farquharson and Petrie are closed. Two sets of ear-phones (of no use with FM or Hi-Fi amplifiers) have been stolen, one by ripping the whole installation off the wall, and it is hoped that the destructiveness of a few individuals will not mean that these satellite sections will have to be closed down.
- Admission buttons ($5.00) for the York University Festival, November 8th and 9th, are now on sale in the College junior common rooms, at the head of the ramp to the dining halls; and at the Excalibur office. Highlights of the weekend include: Dance with five groups (including the Kensington Market, and Stitch in Tyme)... Gord Lightfoot in Concert... Film and Cartoon shows... Inter-university sports events... hockey with Queens... basketball with Carleton.
