Commencing August 15, 1973, Miss Sally Usselman will work with Miss Karen Hooper each Wednesday from 9:30 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. The Credit Union office is located in Room A21, Temporary Office Building - local 3239.
- * The Minister of Manpower and Immigration has recently introduced changes in the immigration legislation which may affect members of the York faculty. According to this new legislation all those who entered the country prior to November 30, 1972 (except those on Minister's permits or students bonded to return to their own countries or those who fall into prohibited classes otherwise than under the immigration legislation), will be allowed the opportunity to apply for landed immigrant status within sixty days of the proclamation. It is important to note that this applies not only to those who entered the country illegally, but also to those who came perfectly legally and opted for an employment visa rather than landed immigrant status and then found that after November 30, 1972, they could not change their status. All those who entered this country legally or illegally (except for the prohibited groups noted above) will have the right under the new legislation to apply for landed immigrant status if they so desire, but within the prescribed period. They will also have the full rights of appeal if their application is rejected by the Department. After that they will almost certainly have to return to their home country in order to make application for landed immigrant status. The last possible date for anyone who wishes to apply from within this country for landed immigrant status according to the new rules is October 15, 1973.
- * The Accounting Department requests the cooperation of the York community in applying for waiver of tuition fees for degree courses taken at York by full-time faculty and staff members and families of faculty members. RYFM is now on Willowdowns Cable (Channel 10) as well as close circuit distribution (recently improved by NORAM) which means that RYFM can now be heard in approximately 100 different locations on campus.

Radio York will be hosting an open house from September 4 - 15. On each day from 12:00 noon until 4:00 p.m. there will be qualified personnel present to answer any questions that interested members of the York community may have. The station is anxious to recruit new student members in all departments - no experience is necessary. - * The Minister of Manpower and Immigration has recently introduced changes in the immigration legislation which may affect members of the York faculty. According to this new legislation, all those who entered the country prior to November 30, 1972 (except those on Minister's permits or students bonded to return to their own countries or those who fall into prohibited classes otherwise than under the immigration legislation), will be allowed the opportunity to apply for landed immigrant status within sixty days of the proclamation. It is important to note that this applies not only to those who entered the country illegally, but also to those who came perfectly legally and opted for an employment visa rather than landed immigrant status and then found that after November 30, 1972, they could not change their status. All those who entered this country legally or illegally (except for the prohibited groups noted above) will have the right under the new legislation to apply for landed immigrant status if they so desire, but within the prescribed period. They will also have the full rights of appeal if their application is rejected by the Department. After that they will almost certainly have to return to their home country in order to make application for landed immigrant status. The last possible date for anyone who wishes to apply from within this country for landed immigrant status according to the new rules is October 15, 1973.

* There have been requests for clarification on the use of the Postal Codes by York University mailers, since confusion does exist between Postal Codes and Responsibility Centre numbers. The following information should show the distinction between the Responsibility Centre number (used for postal charges) and the Postal Codes (used for the delivery of mail):

1. York University Envelopes - should bear the Responsibility Centre number only. This number will enable the York Postal staff to allocate the postage charges correctly for all outgoing mail.
2. York University Stationery - should include the Postal Code, assigned to specific buildings on campus by the Canada Post Office, and presumably to which all replies will be addressed.

Example:

(a) A letter being sent from the President's Office in the Ross Building; charged to Responsibility Centre #1; and, mailed out to the T. Eaton Company Limited -

York University
4700 Keele Street
Downsview, Ont.

T. Eaton Co.

(b) A letter being sent to the President from the T. Eaton Company Limited, showing the postal Code for the Ross Building taken from the President's letterhead -
